PUEBLO, Colo. – Please join the Pueblo Zoo staff and Board of Directors in welcoming our new General Curator & Conservation Programs Manager – Ashley Bowen. For many in our community, Ashley is a familiar face as she loves talking with zoo guests about the animals in her care. Guests often see her on grounds working with our red pandas or perhaps leading a training session with our lynx. If you've had the pleasure of meeting Ashley at some point over the 10 plus years that she's been working with us, then you know what we all know, that she's a passionate and knowledgeable zoo professional with the creativity, drive and vision to lead our animal care team in to the future. We are thrilled to welcome Ashley in to this new leadership role. Education: Michigan State University – Bachelor of Science in Zoology
